

NEWSLETTER DECEMBER 2017

Another year almost gone.....and what a busy year we've had with our exhibition and its preparations and all the various workshops we've had. We will be getting in the festive mood at our meeting next week, when we'll be having a 'make and take' session, nibbles and mince pies and free coffees/teas. We'll also find out who is the winner of the Visitors Choice at the Exhibition.

There will be signing-up boards for the 2 workshops coming up in January and February next year. On January 20th Raya Brown will be giving a workshop on painting with wool, entitled 'Landscapes' and at her workshop on February 3rd Annette Emms will be making fairy shoes, following her talk on 1st February.

Not many people filled in a feedback form at the November meeting so there will be the opportunity at this meeting to speak to Caroline - please let us have your comments about the exhibition so we can continue to improve the whole experience for members and visitors alike. And don't forget to put your suggestions/ideas in the suggestion box!

A date for the new year - Tangent Textiles has an exhibition at the Sock Gallery, Loughborough, from 12th January until the 24th February, and two or three of us will be at the exhibition to talk about our work on three Saturday mornings - January 13th and 27th and February 10th.

I look forward to seeing many of you next Thursday - and wish you all a very happy Christmas.

AND keeeeeeeppp stitching!!!
